Verbal Eruption Expected When COG Officials Meet

Verbal eruption of the battle over organization of a Council of Governments in the Panhandle is expected Sept. 4 when county and city officials from the 25-county area gather in Amarillo.

Battle lines were drawn Tuesday morning in Amarillo City Hall as a COG study committee held its first meeting since appointment last week by Potter County Judge E. H. Foster.

Two old political foes--Amarillo Mayor J. Ernest Stroud and Amarillo City Manager John Stiff--will choose experts to represent pro and con on the issue.

Stiff is a proponent of an area COG while the mayor has been consistently against organizing one.

Presiding at the Tuesday meeting, Judge Foster at first appointed Stiff to provide expert testimony for both sides.

Stiff said he would be able to get someone to speak for a COG but expressed doubt at being able to find a suitable person to speak against it.

Mayor Stroud said that in view of his position he doesn't think he will have any difficulty in finding an expert to tell the group of the bad aspect of COGs in general.

"I was surprised when you put me on this committee," said Stroud, directing his words to Judge Foster. "I haven't changed my opinion."

The study committee was appointed Thursday of last week at a meeting of officials from Potter and Randall Counties and the cities of Amarillo and Canyon.

Among those on the study committee are Canyon Mayor Paul Lindsey and City Commissioner H. R. Fulton and Judge Carroll Brown and Commissioner Bill Butler of the Randall County commissioners court.

Others on the committee are Amarillo Mayor J. Ernest Stroud and City Commissioner R. G. Mills of Amarillo and Judge Foster and commissioner Thad Ansley of Potter County.

At the Tuesday meeting, Amarillo City Manager John Stiff suggested a meeting with representatives of other Panhandle counties before the Amarillo area COG by-laws are

CHS Band To Begin Rehearsals

Band rehearsals at Canyon High School begin Monday with daily sessions set from 8:30 to 11 a.m. and 7-9 p.m. Monday through Friday until school begins, according to Gary Zook, band director.

No rehearsals will be held on Wednesday nights.

When school starts (September 2) band rehearsals will be Tuesday and Thursday afternoon.

Zook said the band will begin work on concert music as well as marching for football season and marching contests.

Ninth grade students interested in auditioning for the CHS Band should contact Zook before Friday.

The CHS bandsmen, and those bandsmen who graduated last spring, are invited for a weiner roast and water ski party at Buffalo Lake next Saturday (August 23). The outing will be sponsored by the Canyon Band Parents. Bandsmen will meet at the high school at 4:30 p.m. that afternoon for departure to the lake.

WT Instructor Awarded Star

The Bronze Star Medal with First Oak Leaf Cluster for heroism in ground combat in Vietnam was presented Monday afternoon to Captain Henry E. Rosser, assistant professor of the Department of Military Science at West Texas State University.

The presentation was made by Lieutenant Colonel Billy R. Smith, professor of military science at WT, as Rosser's wife, Peggy, and other military department staff members observed.

Captain Rosser earned the decoration and citation by his actions on the tenth of February 1969 while serving as an advisor to the Regional Forces Mobile Command Group in the Mekong Delta of the Republic of Vietnam.

The citation, signed by General Greighton Abrams and Secretary of the Army, Stanly Rosser, credits Captain Rosser with braving a hail of enemy bullets to assist in the evacuation of casualties in order for them to receive emergency treatment.

The citation further states that "on an airmobile search and clear mission, on that date, the unit became heavily engaged with a well emplaced Viet Cong Main Force Heavy Weapons Company and three Regional Forces companies were pinned down in exposed positions and immediately began to suffer heavy casualties.

"Captain Rosser quickly advised the Vietnamese commander on the course of action he should take and with complete disregard for his own safety began to extract casualties from the battlefield.

"Braving a hail of enemy small arms and automatic weapons fire he helped carry six casualties from his company's position to an area where they could receive emergency treatment.

City Seeks Help On Dump Ground

City officials, backed by reports from health authorities and an engineer, asked Randall County Commissioners Monday to join with them in the maintenance and control of the city dump.

No action was taken by the commissioners court on the city's request.

The request, which was presented by Mayor Paul Lindsey, was based on the mayor's contention that the dump ground is used not only by citizens of Canyon but by rural residents.

"For 50 years or so, we've had a dump ground where everybody's dumped," he said. "Now the volume has gotten to the point where to do this is unbearable."

The mayor and other officials who appeared with him before the court stressed the need for adequate control of the dump grounds at all times.

Lindsey suggested the road leading to the dump grounds from the VFW Road be closed to the public and a gate be constructed at that intersection. He said the gate could then be locked after working hours weekdays.

The city, under the stipulations of a new state law, was required July 1 to cease burning trash at the grounds and to begin a sanitary land fill operation, which calls for the digging of large trenches into which the trash is dumped and covered with dirt.

The mayor said this new operation has cost the city about $1,000 per month in additional revenue.

Robert Kennedy, health officer with the Bi-City-County health unit in Amarillo, told the court he has made several inspections of the dump grounds in the past three months.

Kennedy said operation of the grounds has improved since earlier inspections but he made several suggestions--all of which met agreement among the city representatives--including the following:

"Controlled dumping. This could be done by establishing certain posted hours the dump ground would be open for public use and under the supervision of a full-time employe. This type of control would be more easily achieved if a gate that could be locked, be installed across the road very near Farm Road 2590.

"Quicker covering of the sanitary land fill areas. . .

"Construction of a small earthen dam around the entire dump area to stop water from

Farewell Is Given Rotarians

Dr. J. A. Hill said goodbye Tuesday to Canyon Rotary Club which he helped to organize more than 40 years ago.

"I accept with pleasure this recognition from the best Rotary Club I know anything about," said Dr. Hill after being presented with a plaque from the organization.

The West Texas State University president emeritus and Mrs. Hill are moving to Georgetown late this month and will live in a retirement home there.

"It is one of the best places for happy living I've ever seen in my life," Dr. Hill told the Rotary Club.

The veteran school administrator was visibly moved as he heard himself eulogized by Ray Lumry, Rotary president.

Dr. Hill first joined Rotary in Amarillo in September of Class Opinion Poll Shows Pro-Sales Tax Feeling

(Editor's note: The following is the first of a two-part series concerning a public opinion survey conducted by a class at West Texas State University.)

A public opinion poll released this week indicates that traffic is believed to be the number one problem in the city and that residents would support a city sales tax if property tax is reduced.

Results of the poll, which was conducted by a public opinion class at West Texas State University, are to be turned over to Canyon's mayor and city commission this week, according to Walter Shelly, class instructor.

Shelly and 26 students compiled what he believes to be an accurate sample of residents to poll. A total of 374 citizens were interviewed during the house-to-house polling last week.

Shelly said he feels the poll valid and an accurate reflection of opinion of all residents in Canyon.

Those to be interviewed he said, were carefully selected by the class.

Shelly said many national public opinion polls interview about 1,000 persons to receive a reflection of the national opinion of more than 200 million persons.

The class compiled the poll results indicating total opinion, opinions of those who own homes, those who rent, total male opinion, total female opinion, opinion by age group, residence and educational background.

Twenty-four questions were asked of each interviewee, but only 19 pertain to current events or issues in the city.

Sixty-two per cent of those interviewed expressed favor of a city sales tax if the property tax is lowered.

Of those interviewed, 24 per cent said the most pressing governmental problem facing the city is that of traffic. Sixty-seven per cent said various miscellaneous problems are most pressing.

On the question of annexation of property to the north of the city, 68 per cent of the total said Canyon should annex to Buffalo Bowl football stadium.

Seventy-one per cent of those interviewed said the city should build a new minicipal library.

A slim 36 per cent favor the joining of Canyon with a "Council of Governments for the Texas Panhandle." On the same question, 33 per cent of those interviewed had no knowledge of councils of government.

Only 34 per cent said Canyon should build a new city hall, while 47 per cent disagreed and 19 per cent had no opinion. Forty-five per cent favor the consolidation of city and school tax offices, while only 24 per cent disagreed.

The question which the most persons agreed upon asked whether Canyon, as a governmental unit, should seek to join a water plan to bring additional water here. Seventy-seven per cent

CAPTAIN HENRY E. ROSSER and wife, Peggy, are shown with citation of Bronze Star Medal with First Oak Leaf Cluster with "V" device awarded in ceremonies Monday at the Reserve Officers Training Center on the campus of West Texas State University. The award honored Captain Rosser's heroic action in Vietnam.

Dr. J. A. Hill, president emeritus of West Texas State University, left, accepts a plaque from Ray Lumry, president of the Canyon Rotary Club at a Tuesday meeting. Dr. Hill bid farewell to club members at the meeting. He is leaving Canyon after being a resident more than 50 years.

Prices of the tickets are $20 for chair seats and $17.50 for bench seats. Single game tickets are not available, but will sell at $5 for chair seats and $4 for bench seats.

Amarillo locations include Blackburn Brothers, Fedway, First National Bank, North State Bank, Brent's, Cooper and Melin, Montgomery Ward and the Hub in Sunset Center.

All 2,372 chair seats were sold to season ticket holders last year and an additional 1,073 chair seats will be added this fall. There will be 290 chair seats added to both sections L and J on the east side of Buffalo Bowl and 455 chair seats added in section D on the west side of the stadium.

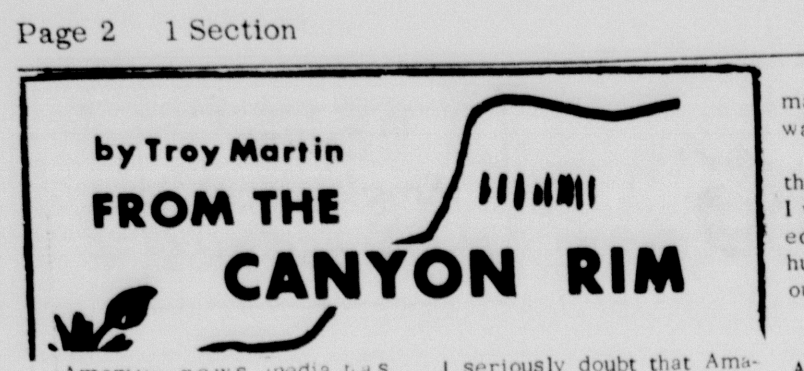
COVERING FUMBLES

by
Dean Mitch Jones

There are a lot of nice people in the world who are intolerable



by Troy Martin

FROM THE CANYON RIM

Amarillo news media has portrayed Mayor J. Ernest Stroud as the fire eater and almost the bad guy in that city while City Manager John Stiff comes through as the reasonable one always seeking for common ground.

I covered two meetings involving both Randall County and Amarillo officials during the past week and was somewhat surprised to learn that Stiff came off as nothing less than trucculent.

When his position was questioned his demeanor bordered on arrogance.

I seriously doubt that Amarillo will ever take the lead it should take in the Panhandle as long as Stiff is city manager there.

It is true that Mayor Stroud voted alone on the question of exploring formation of a council of governments for the Amarillo area. He has been against COG from the start.

I do not say he is entirely right on that question but he is right in his position that the people in the governmental subdivisions involved should be allowed to vote on whether they want to join a COG.

I was not surprised at the mayor's position on COG. I was familiar with that.

After having seen him through the eyes of Amarillo news media I was surprised by the restrained tones of his speech and the humility of his conduct throughout both meetings.

The Panhandle must look to Amarillo for area leadership just as the South Plains looks to Lubbock.

So far the leadership for the Panhandle has not been forthcoming in adequate quantity.

The two meetings I attended since last week shed some light on the problem.

Amarillo leadership as exemplified in the city and county governing bodies is almost unaware of how to lead the area.

For example, the COG study committee appointed by Potter County Judge E. H. Foster called a meeting of Panhandle county and city officials for Sept. 3. That falls on a Wednesday.

One day is as good as another for a meeting in Amarillo served by a daily newspaper and three television stations.

But it is a terrible day for an important meeting involving Panhandle counties served by weekly and semi-weekly newspapers which go to press on Wednesdays.

A weekly editor simply cannot afford to walk off and leave his paper on press day to attend a meeting called at the convenience of folks in Amarillo.

And the presence of area news media is badly needed at any meeting at which a council of, governments for the Panhandle is to be discussed.

When this factor was pointed out to them, members of the committee graciously agreed to hold the meeting on Thursday, Sept. 4. Now I hope an all-out effort will be made to secure the presence of newspaper people from over the area.

Amarillo was born with a silver spoon in its mouth. . . hub of Panhandle transportation, aviation, wheat, cattle and sitting astride almost inexhaustible oil and gas reserves.

Amarillo has for decades enjoyed the proceeds a vast petro-chemical industry and all without too much effort.

Until recent years Amarillo has had a monopoly on helium and because of this should be a center for electronic research.

Only in the past few months has a move been made to develop research in low temperature electronics. An effort is being made to put helium research on the West Texas State University Campus.

Amarillo may have been the victim of its own affluence, an affluence that has allowed its leadership leisure to engage in destructive infighting instead of area building.

I think the leadership in Amarillo is beginning to develop and awaken.

The Chamber of Commerce there has a Panhandle-wide conscious executive director in Don Hileman.

The Panhandle has proved it can move forward in several fields and usually with strong Amarillo cooperation if not outright leadership.

I cite the drama "TEXAS" which plays nightly through the summer in Palo Duro Canyon. It is being performed to capacity crowds this year.

Panhandle Plains Museum is one of the best of its kind in the world.

West Texas State University--thanks to people like Louise Evans, Wales Madden and scores of others working with the administration--has made giant strides in the past few years. It seems on the verge of even greater achievement.

But for years it didn't grow and no one seemed to care, not even those who should have been most concerned--the people of Canyon and Amarillo.

At long last we are in gear on advancing the area's higher education facilities. Amarillo people played major roles on the committee of 67 which I think will have far reaching influence on the growth of WTSU.

During this decade they have been generous in time, talent and money in promoting development of the Panhandle's only university which is likely to be the only one it ever has.

Then there is the sugar refinery at Hereford, Lake Meredith at Borger and many other projects of which we can be proud.

I point these things out to show that there is a glimmer of hope. They also indicate that if there is to be great advancement it must be accomplished through area-wide unity.

Cooperation between Randall and Potter Counties alone coupled with some diligent work could have carried the water amendment so vital to continued Panhandle prosperity.

Amarillo must quit competing with Vega, Groom and Umbarger and fill its natural role of leadership. When Vega, Groom and Umbarger prosper so will Amarillo.

But by the same token, when Amarillo prospers it will be to the benefit of Groom, Umbarger and Vega as well as Canyon, Hereford and Dumas.

In short, let's work together and get on with developing our Panhandle.

Mrs. Jerry Jacobs will review the book "Junior Dear" which was written by her mother, Mrs. Gladys Miller of Hereford. The review is set for January 12.

Fourth in the series will be "Flowers for Algernon" to be reviewed by Mrs. Gilbert Brown on March 9. Mrs. Brown is in guidance and counseling at West Texas State University and authors the weekly column "Our World" for the Canyon News.

The final review, April 13, will be given by Mrs. Mary Dutton on her book "Thorpe" which has been selected by the Literary Guild and Doubleday Book Club.

Our World

BY ANN BROWN

There is an angry clamor from our money-hungry politicians to plug up the loopholes in our tax structure. There are tax leaks, certainly, that need mending, but the orifices through which our very economic life blood is wasting are not the tax loopholes but the ratholes into which our government is pouring the tax billions it DOES collect.

Instead of concentrating on the real loopholes, the primary targets of the tax probe are investment credit, oil depletion, school, state, and municipal bonds, and church property.

Investment credit is our business lifeline; if it is cut, there will not be sufficient business expansion to take care of our increasing population. Result: unemployment and depression.

Oil depletion is the oilman's only avenue for exploration. Oil is where it is found, and the search is unbelievably expensive. Without the 27% tax deduction, exploration will practically cease, and there will not be enough oil to keep the nation's motors turning.

State and local bonds have been exempt from federal taxation because they pay such low interest rates. If an investor prefers to give his money to build the community and state instead of sending it to Washington to be wasted, bless him.

If interest on local bonds is taxed, the interest rates will have to be raised; so who pays the tax after all? It will simply send more of our money to Washington, and leave less at home, regardless of whose pocket it comes out of.

The ownership of income property by churches is a desecration of the divine purpose of the Church. Any church guilty of such desecration certainly should be taxed exactly as their secular competitors are taxed.

The power to tax is the power to destroy. If government on any level is empowered to tax the non-income property of the churches, it will violate the basic principle upon which this nation was founded. Such a tax would increase the almost intolerable burden presently carried by the backbone of our society: the decent, law-abiding, productive, progressive element. Do our finest Americans deserve such a penalty?

The primary characteristics of ratholes are: (1) They are almost impossible to fill. (2) Material that goes into them is worse than wasted; it perpetuates a menace. (Rats add nothing to the world; they only take from the world.) (3) Anything that goes down a rathole is not likely to be recovered; if it is, it will probably have lost its original value.

Our foreign-aid program has long been recognized as a rathole. We have wasted billions of American tax dollars: (1) Building jungle highways that lead to nowhere, which lie unused waiting to be reclaimed by the jungle. (2) We have shipped to many nations equipment and materials thay neither need, understand, nor want. Such "gifts" have generated vindictive hatred for Americans.

Our so-call War on Poverty has not eradicated any of our pockets of poverty, nor is it likely to do so. Much of the money has been spent for salaries of administrators, clerks, and advisors (who were not poverty stricken to begin with); but most of it has been poured down ratholes. The following are typical:

A Neighborhood Youth Corp in New York put a convicted felon in charge of a $300,000 payroll. He added false names to the payroll, and cashed the checks himself. In another New York neighborhood none of the persons listed on the payroll existed.

In addition to fraud, poverty funds have been used to stir up strife. A black militant financed by OEO spoke at a small southern college. Early the next morning, armed black students took over one of the college buildings, and defiantly waved their guns at authorities.

The OEO gave nearly $1 million to two Chicago street gangs, which were notorious for the whole spectrum of crime. The Blackstone Rangers and the Devil's Disciples were supposed to be made peaceful and productive by all that cash. But in the area where the money was spent, the crime rate doubled, and the increased gang warfare resulted in numerous killings.

Almost every welfare-state program from urban renewal to medicare has provided ratholes for our tax money. But the most valuable treasure that has disappeared down the ratholes has been individual initiative, freedom, and self-respect.

Yes, we do need to plug some loopholes in our tax collecting, but first we need to plug the many ratholes in our tax wasting. (Next week--the real tax loopholes.)

1921. "Many members of this club hadn't even been born then," Lumry declared.

He helped organize the Canyon Club in November of 1928 and is the only charter member remaining in the organization. He is the only person to have served twice as the club's president.

At one time he was a member of both the Amarillo Rotary Club and the Canyon club.

"Allen Early Sr., used to tell me that I was one of two people belonging to two clubs," Dr. Hill reminisced Tuesday. "The other one was King Albert of Belgium."

In a short talk before the club, Dr. Hill stressed the help he has received from others and said he has tried his best to serve those about him.

"The purpose of life, after all, is to serve mankind," Dr. Hill declared.

him Captain Rosser directed the further evacuation of the casualties to an area where they could be extracted by helicopter. He coordinated with the other advisors to set up an immediate evacuation plan and exposed himself to enemy fire again and again to help evacuate casualties from the other two companies.

"For more than eight hours he disregarded his own safety as he ensured the successful evacuation of thirty-nine friendly casualties from the battlefield.

"His prompt, unselfish and courageous action saved many lives and won him the deep respect of the Vietnamese soldiers.

"Captain Rosser's heroic actions were in keeping with the highest traditions of the United States Army and reflect great credit upon himself and the military service," concludes the citation.

Previous decorations for Captain Rosser have included the Combat Infantryman's Badge, Army Commendation Medal, Vietnam Cross of Gallantry with Bronze Star, Parachutist Badge and numerous other service medals.

He and his wife, Peggy, have lived in Canyon since May and are members of the Calvary Baptist Church.

Dump. . . . .

passing through the dump ground. . ."

It was suggested that if a full-time dump ground operator were hired, part of his salary could be recovered by charging citizens for unloading trash at the grounds.

County Commissioner Clarence Beckman said he feels the grounds will require a watchman 24 hours per day.

City Manager Howard Northcutt said no cost estimate on the operation of the grounds currently is available due to the relatively short time it has been initiated.

Lindsey suggested that at least one county commissioner aid a city study group in determining solutions to the dump ground problems.

The court raised the assessed value of all pipelines in Randall County 13.33 per cent "to be in line with all other commercial and rural property in the county."

The raise would apply to this year only.

Commissioner Jim Fletcher, after hearing several pipeline representatives request that the assessed value not be raised, contended that the pipeline companys' tax schedule has not been updated since 1952.

He then moved that the raise be initiated.

Included in his motion was a request that the companies submit a revised schedule for the court's consideration in 1970.

A request by the First National Bank of Canyon to have the rendition on part of its capital stock lowered from 100 to 80 per cent was denied by the court.

In other action, the commission made no headway in efforts to redraw county voting precincts. County Judge Carroll Brown noted that the revamping must be accomplished during the months of July or August.

The court voted to allow the City of Amarillo to rent the county's voting machines at a rate of $5 a piece for that city's September sales tax election.

Some Motorist Laws Change In September

Texas Highway Patrolmen will put the 61st legislature's new rules to work September 1 offering lawmen a new weapon for dealing with drunken drivers, new rules governing slow traffic, right-of-way and following too closely, and a revised motor vehicle inspection policy.

Col. Wilson E. Speir, director of the Department of Public Safety, said of the "implied consent" statute, "drinking drivers figure in 40-50 percent of the fatal rural traffic accidents in Texas".

Under the new law, a motorist "is deemed to have given consent" to a Breathalyzer test if he is arrested for any offense operating a motor vehicle while allegedly intoxicated.

If the person refuses a breath analysis test, the arresting officer can certify the refusal in an affidavit, which becomes the basis for a DPS petition to determine the officer's cause for suspecting intoxication.

Refusal to take the breath test may lead to a suspended driver's license for as long as a year.

A blood alcohol test may be given the suspect by his own physician or a qualified technician, if it is made within two hours after arrest.

Three schools are planned for the Law Enforcement Academy in Austin to train local authorities in the use of the Breathalyzer. The instruments are now used in about 90 counties and are serviced weekly by DPS chemists.

SLOW MOVING TRAFFIC

The new slow-moving traffic statute requires traffic traveling below the posted limit to stay in the right-hand lane, or as close as possible to the right edge of the roadway, except when passing other cars.

Another new law gives operators of vehicles, such as tractors that have a maximum speed of 25 miles per hour, until January 1970 to obtain a DPS approved triangular emblem to be mounted on the rear of the equipment.

RIGHT-OF-WAY

A new right-of-way rule says drivers on a single lane street or two-lane roadway must grant right-of-way at intersections with larger streets.

Paved streets have right-of-way at intersections with unpaved roads, the law says.

It further says drivers on intersecting streets of equal size and paving must yield to any other vehicle that approaches or enters the intersection from the driver's right, close enough to create a hazard.

FOLLOWING TOO CLOSELY

The new law on following too closely will require drivers to maintain a safe following distance in regard to speed of traffic and road conditions. Under these guidelines, a driver must be able to stop without a rear-end collision and without veering into another lane.

INSPECTION STICKER CHANGES

New vehicle inspection stickers will go on sale at DPS approved stations the day the new laws go into effect. Deadline for the drastic change in inspection tags is April 15, 1970.

The new stickers will expire 12 months from the inspection date and will have a tab affixed showing the expiration months.

The inspection law adds to the equipment to be examined exhaust emission systems on vehicles.

The sticker fee will jump 25 cents to $2, and the tag will be moved from the right side of the windshield to the left.

DPS director Speir urged all motorists to get early inspections to avoid long lines in the inspection stations when the April deadline draws near.

ROTC Summer Camp A Lesson In Control And Adjustment

BY CARROLL WILSON

(Editor's note: The following is a brief look at the 1969 ROTC summer camp, which precedes enrollment at West Texas State University in advanced ROTC courses.)

We had long hair--very unmilitary long hair--and a few had moustaches. The bus station lobby was filled and we sat around, smoked and talked nervously, but mainly to previous acquaintances.

"Where ya from?" we asked each other and the unasked question which lingered in the backs of our minds was "what the heck are we doing here?"

Already, although we didn't realize it, one of the aspects of Army life, one for which it is famous, was taking effect--we had no idea what was to happen to us next.

What was to happen to us physically that day and throughout the remainder of our stay at the ROTC summer camp at Fort Benning, Ga., was, however, predictable--at least to those who have been through either a similar camp or basic training.

Mentally, what was to happen to us was, perhaps, just as predictable. We were enlightened or maybe we became enlightened.

Four years ago I gave no thought to my two-year military committment. Patriotic, I am, but four years is a long time. The war will probably be over, I thought and they'll probably do away with the draft by the the time I graduate, anyway.

Two years ago my thoughts were the same.

Three months ago, the possibility of being transformed from a civilian into a private was frighteningly becoming reality.

Four years ago, death and war were words for events which had no place in my life. Two years ago I couldn't think seriously about killing or being killed. Three months ago, Vietnam stood naked across the street and my eyes seemed always to fall on the casualty list in the newspaper.

"Get that head down, boy, or Charlie's gonna blow it off," the drill sergeant screamed.

"Now that you have inserted your bayonet just below the rib cage of your opponent, you must get him in a horizontal position on the ground in front of you," said our bayonet instructor.

"As you reach around your opponent's neck, you strike him with a forceful blow in his left kidney," the hand-to-hand instructor said. "This way if you don't strangle him or break his neck, he'll be hurtin' the rest of his life."

"Thou shalt not kill," says The Bible. The American is socialized basically as a non-killer.

"If you don't get Charlie first, he's gonna get you," said our rifle marksmanship instructor.

"Inevitable," he might as well have said--he might as well have said "Charlie's the killer and it's inevitable that unless you get him, he's gonna get you."

It's horribly simple, yet distorted logic. The implication--that you better learn how to kill Charlie because the moral and sociological axioms have no impact on him.

We questioned the logic--but to ourselves. We learned the hand-to-hand, the bayonet, the rifle.

Our instructor could be right. Thirty thousand lives might prove it. We didn't want to be numbers. We learned.

Yes, we fell for their argument, their logic. The prospect of death caused by a lack of knowledge weighs heavily on the mind.

But, we learned other things too, and we slowly realized and understood more of ourselves. We were pushed physically. We were forced into a mold and were forced to take it and not complain openly.

We took it and were surprised by our stamina.

Mentally we took it. We didn't like to think of death, to think of war as an end in itself. But, Canada was never given a serious thought. We would like to see our training never called to the test. But, for now, we realized we have no legitimate alternative.

ROTC Conduct Awards Given

Awards of good conduct medals were made Monday afternoon to personnel in the Department of Military Science at West Texas State University by Lt. Col. Billy R. Smith.

Dailey D. Brown, Jr., staff sergeant major, senior ROTC, received the good conduct medal clasp (fourth award) during the ceremonies.

Leroy R. Stalnaker, staff sergeant, senior ROTC, received the good conduct medal and good conduct medal clasp (second award).

The awards were made for exemplary behavior, efficiency, and fidelity for service periods and issued by the Department of the Army, Headquarters Fourth United States Army, through Fort Sam Houston, Texas.

3 Policemen Are Training For VASCAR

Three members of the Canyon Police Department are undergoing training in the operation of a new speed detecting device which will be in use in the city this fall.

The department has received a new VASCAR device for measuring speed. It has been installed in Police Chief Calvin Costley's car, but is not in use.

Costley said the unit can clock speeders five ways--the officer can follow a car, meet an oncoming car, be followed by a car, clock a car at an intersection going either direction or can be parked using a a measured distance in either direction.

Two Routes Considered For By-Pass

Two possible by-pass routes under consideration by the Texas Highway Department for Interstate 27 near Canyon would both go around the city to the east.

The two are just possibilities and others will be considered before final action is taken on the route, according to Chili Smith, district highway engineer for the department.

One route would pass Canyon to the east at about the east water tower with the highway rejoining U. S. 87 south of Canyon. The other possibility would be to leave the highway south of Stuckey's and route the road into South Washington and on to Happy.

A public hearing on routes will be held in the future, Smith said.

WT Offering Summer ROTC

When the 1969 summer session closes next week at West Texas State University the ROTC department will have passed another milestone as one of the only two such departments in the Southwest to offer summer courses.

Lt. Col. Billy R. Smith, professor of military science, said only New Mexico State University also offers ROTC courses during the summer.

The department at WTSU began offering summer classes during sessions in 1968. Enrollment increased by about 20 per cent this summer as 42 students participated.

During the summer sessions, WTSU offers only the basic ROTC courses, but allows the student to complete a full year of such courses, Smith said.

He said plans include offering the courses next summer, also.

Pro Bobby Westfall of Amarillo sinks a putt during the Pro-Am tournament at Hunsley Hills Monday. Brother, Jim, of Canyon looks on. Bobby was a member of one of six teams tied for first with a score of 59.

New Record Set At Hunsley

Richard Ellis, Pampa, fired 62 in the Hunsley Hills Pro-Am tournament Monday for a new course record.

Even then the Texas A & M golfer's team managed to eke out only a tie with five other teams for first place in the tournament.

The record formerly was held by Ken Bailey of Amarillo who set it with a 67 last summer. David Bonner, assistant pro at Hunsley Hills, thinks the Ellis record will be permanent.

"It will probably stand from now on," Bonner said Wednesday. "This course is not that easy and it probably get harder as time goes by."

Ellis captured low amateur score in a day for amateurs at Hunsley. Runner up was Charlie Douglas of Amarillo with 68.

Low pro was Bobby Westfall of Amarillo with 68 and Hart Warren of Pampa was runner up with a 69. In the pro-pro event Bobby Westfall and David Bonner won with a 62 and Bob Baker and Jim Haren, Amarillo, were second with a 64.

Bonner said it is unusual for so many teams to tie for first. "It indicates a good job of matching up the teams," he said.

By teams the winners were:

Larry Kaplan, assistant pro at Ross Rogers in Amarillo; and Bob Schlinkman, Ace Atkinson and Marie Dean, all of Amarillo.

Jim Haren, assistant pro at Amarillo Country Club; and Betty Hervey and John Adams, both of Amarillo, and Bob Smith of Canyon.

Martin Reeves, assistant pro at Pampa Country Club; and Bill Winburn, Pampa, and Eural Ramsey and R. P. Muir, both of Canyon.

Al Forrester, Canyon Country Club; and Bill DeFee and Debbie Fitzpatrick, both of Amarillo, and Jackie Whitley, Canyon.

Richard Ellis Pampa, W. E. Ellis, Pampa, Oteka Dillard, Pampa, and Tommy Rose, Canyon.

Otis Gollihugh, Amarillo, Frank Painter, Dumas, B. F. Dorman, Pampa and Billie Nichols, Borger.

Participating in the tournament were 107 amateurs and 17 pros for a total of 124.
